

Print this page

Save

Go back

Business Insight expands to new Warwick offices

Risk modelling firm Business Insight has moved to larger offices to boost plans for growth and product development.

</post/news/2220477/business-insight-expands-to-new-warwick-offices>

29 Oct 2012, Mark Sands , Post

The firm will now be based in Olympus Court, a purpose built business park near Warwick.

Business Insight hopes that the location will allow it to attract graduates from nearby universities, and to enhance and widen its existing product suite.

"It was important to relocate to bigger offices with great transportation links as well as being near a quality university with a rich pool of analytical talent that we could tap into," said Business Insight managing director Mark Harrison in a statement announcing the move.

"Warwick fits the bill perfectly and the move will enable us to continue to grow. We are well established as a leading provider of perils risk databases to the UK insurance market, and we never sit still.

"The move to Olympus Court shows we are committed to continual investment in the business and in our products and services."

Print this page

Save to disk

Go back